

School Holds Pancake Breakfast

More than 300 children and parents flocked to the Roslyn-Trinity Cooperative Day School on a recent Saturday morning for the School's Fifth Annual Pancake Breakfast. The event provided a chance for nursery school children to share a family-style meal with classmates, teachers, parents and siblings.

Fathers manned the griddles, flipping more than 1,000 pancakes over the course of the morning. Batter was donated by the Manhasset IHOP.

After the flapjacks, the children were entertained by Port Washington singer/song-writer

Jeff Sorg. The enthusiastic crowd sang, danced, and giggled along with Sorg as he played the guitar.

The Roslyn-Trinity Cooperative Day School, located at 1579 Northern Blvd., is accredited by the National Academy of Early Childhood Programs. A non-sectarian nursery school founded in 1951, it is committed to family-oriented, developmentally-appropriate education. Registration is now in progress for classes for 2, 3, and 4 year olds for the Fall 1999. For information, call Director Lindi Nubel at 621-3380.
